Class Entertained.

Miss Lena Evans entertained her Sunday school class last Thursday. A big time had been planned but owing to the cold morning the pic-nic at the park was changed to a house party and dinner was served at home. After dinner the merry crowd went to Keystone Park and enjoyed the afternoon and supper was served at the park. Miss Evans entertained about thirty-one of her little friends.

"King of Tramps."

The Fuller and Cole's attractions shall always (as in seasons before) be clean, classic and honest, with fair treatment to the public and truly advertised. This year the "King of Tramps" present not one stale or worn out feature, and we feel confident that we shall please our friends to such an extent that they will pronounce us the one and only truly advertised Drama that visits your city this season. Emporium Opera House, Thursday evening, Sept. 9th.

Attending Convention.

Emporium was well represented at Ulysses, Pa., last Tuesday and Wednesday, at the Allegheny River Baptist Association Convention, that was held in the Baptist Church, at that place. Rev. J. L. Bogue, pastor of the church at this place, preached the annual sermon, on Tuesday afternoon, and took for the subject of his discourse, "The Stabilitp of the Church." Emporiumites present at the convention were: Rev. J. L. Bogue, Mrs. Mary Beers, Misses Rachel Day, Charlotte Spence, Myrtle and Vera Olmsted, Messrs. H. C. Olmsted and Arthur Orton.

Olean Fair.

President Frank N. Godfrey, of the Olean Fair Association, has succeeded in getting Gov. Hughes to speak at the Olean Big Fair. The Governor speaks Thursday at Little Valley Fair and will arrive over the trolley line and will speak Friday morning, Sept. 10th. This is Governor Hughes first visit to Olean since he ran for Governor three years ago.

Jack Richards, who played a week ago at Ontario Beach Park, is giving general satisfaction in his foot juggling and up-side-down buck and wing dancing. The Broadwicks are making night and day ascensions in their big baloon. Miss Tina, fourteen years old, is becoming a general favorite, Huntley, a famous high wire artist, is giving the same satisfaction as two years ago. The Mid-Way every night is crowded with sight-seers and fun-makers. Professor Van's carnival shows are special features on the Mid-Way. These include the seven foot giant show, wild animal show and vaudeville show.

Highly Entertained.

Miss Sadie McKinney, of Kane, Pa., arrived here last Sunday, Aug. 29, as the guest of Miss Matilda Scott. Tuesday evening she was entertained at the residence of Mrs. Mose Johnson, who served a very delightful supper. Wednesday evening she was entertained at the residence of Mrs. Lewis Battles who served a delightful supper. Friday at three o'clock she was invited to attend the picnic of Mrs. Eick's Sunday school class of the Baptist Sunday school and in the evening at seven o'clock she was entertained at the residence of Mrs. E. Robinson who afterwards served a very nice supper. Saturday evening at eight o'clock she was entertained at the residence of Mrs. H. Graham, who served a delightful supper. Sunday she spent her last hours at the home of Mrs. Wm. Scott. She left on the four o'clock train for home. She spent a very delightful week in Emporium and she was met at the station by a host of friends to bid her fare-well. XX

Six O'clock Dinners.

The young ladies of the H. G. L., are certainly having great times and some elaborate dinners. Miss Helen Smutz entertained the bunch at her home last Thursday evening and Miss Margaret Cavey did the honors on Saturday evening, more will follow

Fire at Keystone Powder Plant.

Last Wednesday afternoon the dope house, soda house and engine house at the Keystone Powder works were destroyed by fire and consequently some of the employees have been resting up while the buildings are being rebuilt.

Didn't Understand.

At dinner, while Johnny was visiting his grandfather in Arizona, he noticed that when his grandfather said grace, he bowed his head. This being a new thing to Johnny, he asked his mother: "Ma, what is it grandpa says to his napkin?"

Birthday Party.

Saturday, Sept. 4th, being the birthday of Mrs. Sadie Dalphy, of Maple street, it had been planned that a pic-nic at Keystone Park should mark the event. The weather not permitting at about 8 o'clock p. m., some friends very unceremoniously took possession of her home much to the surprise of this industrious and estimable lady. The evening was very plesantly spent, refreshments served after which the company dispersed for their homes, wishing Mrs. Dalphy many happy returns of the day. Those present were: Mesdames. James Hamilton, Belle Bettie, Lizzie Kelley, Chas. Edwards, Robt. Faucette, L. F. Craven, Henry Jessop, John Robinson, M. H. Dodge, E. L. Rendt, S. H. McDonough, H. R. Kless, J. R. Fetter, Phoebe Morse and son, Carl Blair and daughter, Miss Lily Rendt and Margaret Hamilton.

Cameron County Fair.

The management of the Fair has secured Robbin's Wild West show, which will appear on the grounds next week. This is a great attraction and will introduce many features of the wild west. The company contains 24 people and 14 horses. The prices of this great show will be within reach of all. Another feature of the fair will be the free exhibitions of "The Wilsons" in a wonderful revolving, break-a-way ladder act. The management are endeavoring to make this fair exceed all former occasions. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged each day. There will be no free admission as has been reported.

Public Sale.

The undersigned will hold a public sale at his farm on Whittemore Hill, Friday, Oct. 4th, at two o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the following will be disposed of: One team of horses, one heavy lumber wagon and box, one new heavy pair bob sleds, one set double harness and one set of single harness, one plow, one harrow, one cultivator, one shovel plow and farm small tools, five tons of hay, two calves, one two year old heifer, one sow with pigs, potatoes and cabbage.

At Emporium Opera House.

The "King of Tramps" will appear at the Opera House, next Thursday evening, Sept. 9th, and will present one of the most novel and pleasing entertainments ever offered the amuse ment loving public. The program is overflowing with the rapid-fire fun and genuine surprises; pretty music and dazzling scenic effects form an import ant part of the entertainment. The "King of Tramps" is everywhere presented in absolute perfection, never curtailed in any detail, a fact that makes this organization still more successful each successive season. The management's motto has been, "Perfection Makes Perpetual Popularity."

Just received a line of Boy's and Men's Shoes at C. B. Howard & Co'

A Warning.

The thieves that stole a grubbing-hoe and shovel on the dug road hill, near Salt Run, last week, had better return them to the place they got them, if they don't want to be made public and land in the coop with the rest. We saw the parties that took them and we will give them only a few days to retnrn them.

"The Thimble Club" Entertained.

Mrs. J. A. Smith, of Sterling Run, entertained "The Thimble Club" at her hospitable home Thursday evening. Sept. 2nd. These gatherings weekly have a two-fold purpose, viz:—The raising of money in a delightful way and the welding of an unbreakable chain of friendship. They serve their purpose admirably. The earlier part of the evening is spent in conversation over busied hands. You may hear often as witty attacks and replies as are ever heard during the post-prandial hour at the dinners to great men. Nothing becomes monotonous and all are sorry when half-past nine finds the club adjourned after the reading of the minutes, transaction of business and partaking of tastily prepared refreshments. Those present this evening were: Mrs. Geo. Strawbridge, Mrs. A. A. Smith, Misses Nora Jordan, Lillian Strawbridge, Nellie Whiting, Cora Dice, Elsie Warner, Nettie Kissel, Mildred Strawbridge, Mrs. C. G. Howlett, Miss R. L. Brink, Carlton Smith, Rev. J. W. Shank and host and hostess. XX

At Cape Nome.

We copy this article from a Seattle Wash., paper, Mr. Pelky being a former Emporium boy:

"A. Pelky, a new arrival at Nome Alaska, Aug. 6, from the Innoko, brought a huge poke of coarse gold and big nuggets, the whole weighing over ten pounds, of the highest grade gold in Alaska. Its assay value is $19,-75 per ounce. The largest nugget weighed 29 ounces, another 15 ounces and others 10, 12, and 5 ounces.

Mr. Pelky reports that the Innoko and its various tributaries will produce nearly 500,000 this season. Grub is very scarce and famine prices prevail. Flour is $35 per 100 pounds; bacon and ham 75cts pound and everything else in proportion. Wild game and timber are plentiful. Miners generally outfit for two years."

Evening Party.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Mead Floyd entertained a few friends at their home on West Sixth street, last Thursday evening, in honor of their guest, Miss Marie Garvin, of Youngstown, Ohio. The evening was very pleasantly spent in playing hearts. The first prizes were awarded to Mrs. Joseph Burnett and Mr. Arthur Catlin and Miss Hilda Swanson received the consolation prize. Light refreshments were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. J. Willis Gaskill, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gibbs, Misses Dorothy Nelson Hilda Swanson, Edith Heilman, Sadie and Annie Edwards, Messrs. Scott Sterner and Arthur Catlin.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

SPRUNG.

Mrs. Sophia Sprung, wife of Mr. William Sprung, died at her home at Shippen last Thursday, Sept. 2, 1909. Deceased was boen in Shippen township, July 14. 1858 and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Minard. Mrs. Sprung was well known in Emporium and had a host of friends here who will greatly miss her. The funeral services were held last Sunday afternoon from her late home and were in charge of the Rev. J. F. Anderson, pastor of the M.E. church of this place. Interment was made in the Wiley Cemetery. The bereaved husband and children and parents have the sincere sympathy of the PRESS and a large circle of friends.

A HUMANE WORK.

During the meeting of the medical association at Atlantic City, a suggestion was made that the women physicians of New York and other towns of the north should co-operate in the work of teaching the poor to avoid disease, says the Florida Times-Union. Thus and individual work has become one of strength and union. The physicians of the female persuasion have already begun at their humane task, and the poor, infected children of the crowded quarters will be saved by it. The great philanthrophy of this movement can scarce be weighed until one realizes the want, the ignorance and the disease that reign over the tenement districts of New York. The women especially will be taught to take hygienic care of their little ones as well as of themselves. What is the use of supplying pasteurized milk to the infants if the mothers don't know how to feed it to them in a cleanly, sanitary manner. Besides, pasteurized milk does not disinfect a room where baby lives, neither does it make him immune from the diseases which attack his elders with whom he is in too close contact. Teaching the poor, ignorant mothers is saving the race, and no other class of women can be better teachers of the miserable masses than the woman who holds a medical diploma.

The lot of rulers in Russia, Turkey, Portugal, Morocco, Persia and Spain, not to speak of some South American countries, might appear to a calmly philosophic observer calculated to discourage the pretending business. It does not seem to the ordinary man that the job from which you are likely to be forcibly detached by a mob, or dynamite bomb, is worth straining yourself to get. But royal human nature is such that the pretenders keep right on pretending.

That Paris doctor who is advocating the removal of the large intestine from every child before the age of three years, on the ground that this organ is a breeding place for most of the harmful germs that flesh is heir to, has struck a great scientific principle, says the Philadelphia Telegraph. Following it out, we would have amputation of the feet as a cure for corns, of the nose for snoring, of the stomach for seasickness, and of the head for headaches. Simple, isn't it?

It is the indirect loss which counts adversely when epidemics of any kind break out in a country, and quarantine precautions are instituted by other nations. The British government has just revoked the orders prohibiting the landing of hay and straw from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware, although the foot and mouth disease which appeared among the cattle of those states in 1908 has been stamped out for many months.

Many stocks are making new high records in the New York market, and whether or not the buyers are getting good bargains there isn't much reason to doubt that current prices are prophetic in respect to the business outlook and the good times which are needed to support such Wall street optimism. The business of the country is going to make many new records, and that soon.

The killing of a little girl by a boy of 12 who was overfond of playing highwayman suggests that the youth of the country should have either less stimulation with high-colored literature and moving pictures or more stimulation with the rod. Or a combination of both might not be injudicious.

Only a short while and the aeroplane will no longer be a novelty. Just as soon as a sensational invention becomes an assured success it becomes prosaic, and the world impatiently awaits for something new to thrill.

Here is a new cause for alarm! The pauper hog of China is competing with the corn-fed American porker in the London market.

MEXICAN RIVER FLOODS

HALF OF CITY OF CAMARGO WASHED AWAY.

Fully 200 Families Homeless and Badly in Need of Food Supplies—No Loss of Life.

Laredo, Tex.—A dispatch just received by the mayor of Nuevo Laredo, Mex., from Camargo, Mex., situated 125 miles from this city, on the lower Rio Grande, stated that as a result of the flooding of the San Juan river, due to the recent heavy rains and the overflow from the Santa Catarina river, which is a tributary of the San Juan, half the city has been washed away and there is great suffering among the poor Mexicans. The telegram states that fully 200 indingent Mexican families are homeless and badly in need of food supplies.

There is no mention made of any loss of life, so it is assumed that, unlike the flood at Monterey, which claimed such a large number of victims, the inhabitants of Camargo had ample warning and were enabled to escape to high ground and save themselves. Camargo consists principally of an aggregation of small adobe houses. It is a town of approximately 4,000 inhabitants. It is impossible to estimate the financial loss.

TRAIN SMASHES STREET CAR

Thirteen People Are Severely Injured, Two of Them Probably Fatally, at Des Moines, Ia.

Des Moines, Ia.—Mrs. R. M. Rollins and Mrs. Edward Lawless were probably fatally hurt and 11 other passengers were severely injured when a loaded Rock Island passenger train, carrying state fair visitors, struck a packed Fort Des Moines street car in the middle and crushed it to kindling wood.

The street car was dragged 50 feet on the pilot and wrecked against the steel girders of the railroad bridge across the Des Moines river. The wrecked car remained balanced precariously on the bank of the river 20 feet above the water. It was with difficulty that the injured were taken from the wreckage without falling into the river.

While rescuers were removing the street car passengess from their perilous situation, another Rock Island train ran into a crowd at the rear of the first excursion train and a second catastrophe was narrowly averted. All the injured live in Des Moines. While only 11 were taken to hospitals, everybody in the street car was hurt. Mrs. Lawless, who may die, suffered her throat cut by a piece of glass. Conductor Harry Badgley of the street car declared that the right of way had been given his car by the flagman at the crossing.

FINANCIER CROSSES DIVIDE

Mr. Gwinner Was the First Man to Drive a Horse Car in Pittsburg—Liked by Poor People.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Frederick Gwinner, sr., 77, former president of the Enterprise National bank, a director in several other institutions and one of the foremost financiers of this city, is dead at his home on the North Side, after an illness of a week, death being caused by acute indigestion. Mr. Gwinner was the first man to drive a horse car in Pittsburg and was heavily interested in the old Pittsburg, Allegheny & Manchester Railways Co. His fortune at the time of his death is estimated at about $3,000,000.

The deceased endeared himself to the hearts of hundreds of poor people in this city shortly after the failure of the Enterprise National bank several years ago, when he paid out of his own pocket $400,000 to those who lost all their savings through the alleged peculiations of the cashier of the bank.

WOMAN MURDERED BY SON

When Officers Go to Arrest the Young Man He Shoots Himself Dead at Sweetheart's Home.

Pottsville, Pa.—After killing his mother, probably a week ago, George F. Simons, aged 21, shot himself dead at the home of Violet Hartranft, to whom he had been paying attention. The body of the mother was found in the attic of her home by the father, George F. Simons, sr. The door of the room was fastened with large screws and the crevices were sealed with paraffine. The body is in a horribly decomposed condition. It is believed she was strangled.

After the body was discovered the husband notified the police, who went to the home of the Hartranfts to ascertain the whereabouts of the younger Simons. Upon seeing the officers the young man shot himself in the head before any one could interfere. It is believed that the young man quarreled with his mother about his paying attention to the young girl.

Three New Ocean Records.

New York City.—Three new ocean records fell to the Cunard liner Lusitania on her latest trip from Queenstown which ended September 2. The Lusitania made the passage in four days, 11 hours and 42 minutes; she maintained an average speed of 25.85 knots for the entire voyage, beating the Mauretanias record of 25.84 and finally by landing her passengers at the Cunard pier shortly before 8 o'clock at night she became the first liner to dock on the fourth day out from Queenstown.

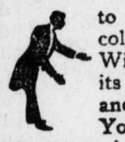
If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted—where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

MAKE YOUR APPEAL



to the public through the columns of this paper. With every issue it carries its message into the homes and lives of the people. Your competitor has his store news in this issue. Why don't you have yours? Don't blame the people for flocking to his store. They know what he has.

The Home Paper Gives you the reading matter in which you have the greatest interest—the home news. Its every issue will prove a welcome visitor to every member of the family. It should head your list of newspaper and periodical subscriptions.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

JOB PRINTING We can do the finest class of printing, and we can do that class just a little cheaper than the other fellow. Wedding invitations, letter heads, bill heads, sale bills, statements, dodgers, cards, etc., all receive the same careful treatment—just a little better than seems necessary. Prompt delivery always.

Putting One Past the Post

By JOHN IRVING DAY

Garnering the Gold by a Special Process Originated Within the Confines of the High Rollers' Club

DOCK FLOYD, Jack Cleland and Col. Powley of the High Rollers' club set out from Reno, Nev., for San Francisco. They became acquainted with a George Hopkins, interested in Raw Hide mining properties.

Doc Floyd sat in the marble-finished rotunda of San Francisco's best hotel the morning after his arrival. He had finished with his newspaper and was gazing out upon the little park across the street filled with palms and beds of bright-hued flowers. Neither Col. Powley nor Jack Cleland had appeared, and he was rather glad when the young mining man he had met on the train came upon him, and he was roused from his self-absorption by a cheery greeting. Looking up, he saw that young Hopkins no longer wore corduroys and heavy hunting boots, but was blue-serged, green-hatted and patent-leathered, and altogether sporty looking enough to belong to his own set.

"All alone, I see," remarked Hopkins as he touched Floyd upon the shoulder. "If you've not been to breakfast, I'd like to have you join me."

"I'd be pleased to," assented Floyd, who had grown hungry waiting for his friends. "Those fellows who came with me must be taking an extra portion of sleep this morning. I'll not wait any longer for them."

Down in the grillroom a breakfast was served, the equal of which is not to be had in any other city in the United States, excepting, perhaps, New Orleans. By the time Floyd and Hopkins had lit their cigarettes they were conversing as old friends.

"Oh, look who's arrived!" burst out Tony the Tout, upon catching sight of Floyd and his party. "If it isn't the Big Doctor, and I haven't seen him since Hamburg was a two-year-old."

"And say," whispered Tony, in confidential tones, "find out to-night what business that young man who was with you this afternoon has with old Tom Camp. They were off in a corner for a long time and if your friend ain't some wise fish he's apt to be bit."

That night after dinner Floyd, in conversation with young Hopkins, cautiously led the talk up to Tom Camp, and then asked the flat-footed question as to whether Hopkins had entered or was about to enter into any deal.

"Well, I'm rather ashamed of it, because it does look like a crooked deal," returned Hopkins; "but I'm a lot loser on the game, first and last, and it looks like a chance to get even, so I was going to take it. If you know anything about Camp, you know he has some of the best horses on the track. He says he's been in hard luck this winter and lost several thousand dollars bucking the faro bank. His proposition is for me to put in $5,000 to help back a book. He will put in $5,000 of his own money, making a good strong bank roll. The books are all making money now, and besides the even break we would get in on the regular play; Camp says he can fix a race or two so we can win some sure money. He is certain that we can pull out $25,000 each in a week."

"That all listens well," broke in Floyd.

"What's the matter with it?" questioned Hopkins. "I don't know why I'm telling you all this, anyway. You might queer my game for all I know."

"No, I'll do nothing of the kind," answered Floyd. "But I'll bet you five hundred now that if I don't save you, Camp will trim you for whatever you put in. If it's such a sure thing, what does he want with a partner to share the profits? Any time a man offers you something for nothing, lock up your bank roll and keep your hand on your jewelry. Do you follow me?"

"Yes, it does look that way," assented Hopkins; "but you see he needs $10,000 to make the book safe, and he only has about $5,000 in ready money that he can lay his hands on. That's why he wants some one to come in with the other $5,000."

"That's just what they all say, and now I'm convinced that you are scheduled to be the goat," announced Floyd. "Did he explain to you just how he was going to pull off one of those alleged 'sure things?'"

"Yes, there's a race on the card to-morrow in which he has a horse entered that can win. He also controls the only other contender in the race. He can throw the race to whichever horse he wants to. You know that's possible, don't you?"

"Yes, I've seen such things done, and then again I've seen them fall most awfully hard. I can see now how easy it will be for him to break the book and get your $5,000 on one race. Come on up to my rooms and I'll initiate you into the art of beating the double cross, if there's any chance to do it; and if there isn't then you'd better keep your $5,000 in the bank, or have a trustee appointed to look after it for you. You may be all right on a mining proposition, but there are a lot of other things you've got to learn."

Within 15 minutes Floyd, with the aid of the telephone, had located Tony the Tout, and in another half hour that wise bug of the turf had arrived at Floyd's rooms, wondering for what he was wanted, and pleased all over to be summoned into the presence of so august a personage

To Tony Floyd told the proposition of Camp as Hopkins had told it to him, and upon hearing the proposition Tony let out a long laugh.

"Why, it's just a plain game of double cross," asserted Tony. "He'll break the book and get your $5,000 in one race and then tell you it was all a mistake and make you believe it, and then he'll ask you to dig up another $5,000 to get even with. Why, my kid brother wouldn't bite on that old hook."

"Yes, do you suppose I didn't know all that?" broke in Floyd with a motion for the talkative Tony to shut up. "What I want you for is to see if we can turn the tables and get Camp's end of the bank roll."

"I'm afraid not," answered Tony. "He's worked that game four or five times this season and always gets away with it. He's got a regular crew to go on and make the book and they all stand in with the play. I suppose he's told Mr. Hopkins that he can put a man in the box to look out for his interests?"

"AIN'T YOU WISE TO WHAT'S HAPPENED?"

"Yes, he said I could do that," assented the young mining man.

"Let's look over that race he said he could fix for to-morrow," was the sudden suggestion of Tony as he produced a paper in which was a list of the entries for the next day's races. "Oh, I've got the old badger!" was the sudden, gleeful outburst. "He was right about there being just two horses in the race with a chance to win. Go on and put in the $5,000 with him and I'll attend to the rest when I see you at the track to-morrow. Just put a wise one in the box to see that no one runs away with the bank roll, and after that race we'll have old Camp ready to take the high dive from the top of the ferry boat."

"What is it you're going to do?" was the suspicious inquiry of Hopkins.

"Never mind what I'm going to do; the Big Doctor will stand for what I say, won't you, Doc?"

"Yes. I don't know what it is, but if you are sure you can put it through I'll take all, or half, of Hopkins' end of the $5,000. I'll give Hopkins $2,500 in the morning for a half of his interest and he needn't let Camp know there is any one else in on the deal. Jack Cleland can be the man in the box as lookout."

When Floyd arrived at the race track on the day following his talk with Hopkins and Tony he saw a new bookmaker's stand in the line under the shed of the betting ring. In this stand was seated Jack Cleland, who was supposed to be there as an assistant to the cashier, but no glance of recognition passed between the two. Floyd and Hopkins also kept apart during the afternoon, having agreed to meet in a secluded spot on the grounds just before the race in which Camp had announced that a trick was to be turned.

"Are you sure of that tout?" was the anxious inquiry of Hopkins when he and Floyd finally met in consultation.

"Yes, he'd lose both legs sooner than throw me down," was the reply. "Now, what does Camp say?"

"He says he has instructed the book to take in all the bets they can get on Applejack. He has arranged with the owner of that one to lose and he will win with his own horse, Lemon Squeezer. He explains that it might be suspicious to the judges if he didn't win this race."

"That means," explained Floyd, "that he intends that Applejack is to win and his horse will be beaten out. How much money have you got in your pocket?"

"Oh, about $500."

"Well, go in the ring and make five $100 bets on Lemon Squeezer, but don't bet it in our book. Camp has given instructions to his bookmakers to give a shade the best price on the other fellow's horse. He will have commissioners there to get his own money down quick and bet enough to win out the bank roll on that one race. That's the way he's got it fixed to win our $5,000."

The two separated and entered the betting ring from different ends of that inclosure. Floyd noticed that, true to his prediction, the new partnership book had put up 2 to 1 on Applejack while the other books were laying a shade less than that price. A moment afterwards he noticed that the partnership bookmaker rubbed out the price against Applejack, announcing that he had all he wanted of it. Floyd knew by this sign that Camp had bet enough of his own money to win out the money that was in the book. Walking quietly through the ring, he stopped long enough before a number of books to make several good-sized wagers on Lemon Squeezer. He already had given Tony $1,000 to wager on the same horse.

Thomas Camp, besides getting all the money to be had in his own book, also had wagered hundreds on Applejack in other books about the ring, and was surprised to note when he returned from the paddock, where he had just saddled his horse and given final instructions to the jockey, that the price against Lemon Squeezer, his own horse, had not gone up in the betting. He was unaware that a large amount of money bet by Floyd had forced the price down. He had no time to investigate, however, as the horses already were at the post, and he hurried to a point of vantage from which he could view the race.

Across the track in the infield Tony the Tout and Hank Harlin, owner of Applejack, stood talking together. Doc Floyd, watching the pair through his fieldglasses from the grandstand, saw Tony pass a small package of bookmakers' tickets to Harlin.

"They're off!" came the buzzing cry of the crowd in chorus as the barrier over at the three-quarter pole whizzed up and a field of eight horses leaped forward. The blue and white striped jacket and cap of Applejack showed in front, while next in order and close behind came Lemon Squeezer, both horses running easily. Before they had gone a quarter of the distance it could be seen that the race was between the first two horses, and the others were strung out in single file. In the stretch came Applejack, running without effort, with Lemon Squeezer within safe call. A smile of contentment rested upon the face of Tom Camp, down at the end of the grandstand, while Floyd's countenance wore a worried look and young Hopkins was shivering in the excitement of lost hope.

"There, and I listened to you and your tout," he said to Floyd as he saw Applejack winning easily.

"Why, it's nothing more than a procession," muttered Floyd. "And I would have staked my right eye on Tony. Why, that boy on Applejack is racing him to death to win and the other fellow don't seem to be trying."

"Applejack wins!" shouted the crowd as the blue and white stripes passed under the wire a good length in front of Lemon Squeezer.

"That's one time that I'm the goat," muttered Doc Floyd to Hopkins. "I'm sorry I steered you wrong, and will get you even. Although I guess I'm in a few thousand deeper than you are, I know I gave you the wrong steer and am sorrier for that than losing my own money. We are whipsawed for fair. Camp wins out the bank roll in the book and we lose our outside bets. Come on and let's get a bottle of wine. No use crying over spilt milk now."

The two men, drinking large glasses of wine at the bar, paid slight attention to a sudden cheering and commotion on the outside.

"I guess we put over a good one that time, didn't we?"

Floyd looked around upon the smiling face of Tony.

"Why, you young hound, I ought to break your head with this bottle," he said in low but dangerously threatening tones.

"What's the matter, pal? Ain't you wise to what's happened?"

"No, what is it?" broke in young Hopkins, anxiously.

"Why, Applejack was disqualified for not having up enough weight. Somehow or other Hank Harlin was careless in putting his lead pads to make the extra weight along with the saddle, and the jockey lost ten pounds of lead while he was at the post. Careless of Hank, wasn't it? He's been looking for a chance to double cross Camp and fell for my little scheme when I told him how much money we would bet for him on the other horse."

"And then we've won in the book besides the outside bets?" exclaimed young Hopkins, suddenly realizing that Tony the Tout had made good.

"You should have told us how you were going to pull it off," drawled Floyd. "We nearly had heart failure and you can't blame us for doubting you, can you?"

"Well, I've showed you that I could put one over, anyway," returned Tony. "And now, so far as I'm concerned they can turn all the race tracks in the country into golf links. I'm going in a decent respectable saloon business back home."

SHOES.

Oh, the world holds lots of troubles
That can give a chap the blues,
But there's none that grief redoubles
Like a pair of pinching shoes.
When a fellow's toes are hurting
And he has to limp along,
Short, bad words he may be blurting,
But he'll never sing a song.

By the same sign, while we're singing
These two stanzas 'bout the feet,
There is naught more comfort bringing—
Truth to tell, thy're hard to beat—
Than a pair of old mud-splashers
Cut to fit a fellow's corn;
Though they're hardly fit for "mashers,"
Soothing more than they adorn.

'TIS EVER THUS.

Trust President—Is there no way we can put this competing company out of business without getting into trouble ourselves?

Legal Adviser—I fear not, the way things seem to be going now.

T. P.—But competition will be so expensive.

L. A.—You will have to cut down your expenses.

T. P.—That's true. I say, James, you can tear up that check I told you to fill out for the African missionary work.

Silver Lining.

Wife (reading)—Here's another case of a bachelor going wrong. The cashier of a bank, aged 40, has been sent to the penitentiary for 25 years for embezzlement

Husband—Well, he's in luck.

Wife—Why, how do you make that out?

Husband—He'll have a quiet, peaceful time of it until he gets out—then he'll be too old to marry.

Drawing the Line.

"No," said the fussy old bachelor, "I'm not an advocate of boarding house socialism. No, indeed!"

"What do you mean by boarding house socialism?" queried the shoe clerk.

"It's the kind," explained the f. o. b., "that gives everybody an equal chance at the piano."

LOVE WILL LIGHTEN THE LOAD.

Stockson Bonds—Take this basket of fruit to 444 Grosvenor square. It's not too heavy for you, is it?

No Infallible Method.

A leading mathematician of France gives another warning that there is no infallible method of doubling one's stakes after a loss. REACHING THE SPOT

t Can be Done, So Scores of Emporium Citizens Say.

To cure an aching back,
The pains of rheumatism,
The tired-out feelings,
You must reach the spot—get at the cause.
In most cases 'tis the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys.

Mrs. John Summerson, W. Sixth St., Emporium, Pa.. says: "I suffered from nagging backaches and pains in my sides and kidneys for a long time, caused by disordered kidneys. I suffered from rheumatism in my limbs, was lanquid and lacked ambition. I used many remedies but obtained no relief until I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box from Taggart's drug store. They gave me relief from the backaches and pains, regulated the kidney secretions and improved my general health. I obtained more relief from this remedy than I had ever hoped for and I am therefore glad to recommend it to other kidney sufferers.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Why Druggists Recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Colera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Frank C. Haurahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Na., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purpose that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." For sale by Geo. C. Taggart.

Testifies After Four Years.

Carlisle Center, N. Y., G. R. Burhans, writes: "About four years ago I wrote you that I had been entirely cured of kidney trouble by taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and after four years I am again pleased to state that I have never had any return of these symptoms, and I am evidently cured to stay cured." Foley's Kidney Remedy will do the same for you. Sold by all druggists.

Colic Quickly Cured.

Colic is one of the most severe and painful diseases. It is quite common, too. Almost everyone has an occasional attack. Fortunately there is a remedy that always affords quick relief and has never been known to fail in any case. It is called Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Tod Robinson, a prominent merchant of Point Blank, Texas. says: "I have had several attacks of colic and in every instance one dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy relieved me, and I never had to take more than two doses to effect a cure." For sale by Geo. C. Taggart.

Do not be deceived by unscrupulous imitators who would have you believe that the imitation pills are as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. There isn't anything just as good as these wonderful pills for the relief of Backache, Weak Back, inflammation of the bladder, urinary disorders and all kidney complaints. Any one oan take DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills as directed in perfect confidence of good results. Sold by all druggists.

Best Treatmeni for a Burn.

If for no other reason, Chamberlain's Salve should be kept in every household on account ot its great value in the treatment of burns. It allays the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a severe one, heals the parts without leaving a scar, This salve is also unequaled for chapped hands. sore nipples and diseases of the skin. Price 25 cents. For sale by Geo. C. Taggart.

Many people delude themselves of saying, "It will wear away," when they notice symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble. This is a mistake. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy, and stop the drain on the vitality. It cures backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, and makes every trace of pain, weakness, and urinary trouble dissappear.

Britain's Coal Troubles.

We hear a great deal in these times of the folly and wickedness of war between civilized peoples. What, then, shall be said of industrial civil war in our midst? In every dispute there must always be a reasonable middle course. If it cannot be found that is nothing short of a disgrace to our civilization.—London Weekly Dispatch.

Learn When to Say "No."

It is good to be unselfish and generous, but don't carry that too far. It will not do to give yourself to be melted down for the benefit of the tallow trade; you must know where to find yourself.—George Eliot.

Why Go Elsewhere,

Our agency will show convincing evidence of 35 years extensive sale and highly satisfied users of the L. & M. Paint. All dealers in other paints combined cannot furnish equal evidence. When painting with L. & M., you are painting with Metal Zinc Oxide combined with White Lead. Zinc is imperishable and makes the L. & M., wear and cover like gold. Its colors remain bright and lasting. Don't need repaint for 10 or 15 years. Besides it cost ¼ less for paint. Sold by Harry S. Lloyd, Emporium.

Not in Favor of "Whuppin'."

The Kentucky mother of 14 children, herself unschooled, and all her "idees" gathered from experience and "watchin and studyin' about things," thus comes to a very modern conclusion on family government: "Folks whupps children too much. Hits ol' folks' meanness what causes whuppin' more than children' dedeservin' hit. The ol' folks'll hev some trouble of their own, an' they'll turn and whupp a child, an' hit innercent."

Kicked Out of His Rights.

It seems in this age that a person who is not in his brightest mood is forced to take a back seat. Any person who does not feel equal to his opportunities should at once go to R. C. Dodson, Druggist, Emporium, Pa., where they sell all the principal remedies and do not substitute, and get a treatment of Sexine Pills. Price, $1 a box, or six boxes for $5. Treatment guaranteed.

Not Always.

The greatest reformer doesn't always wear the longest hair nor the biggest necktie.

One's First Duty.

There is an idea abroad among moral people that they should make their neighbors good. One person I have to make good; myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy--if I may.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

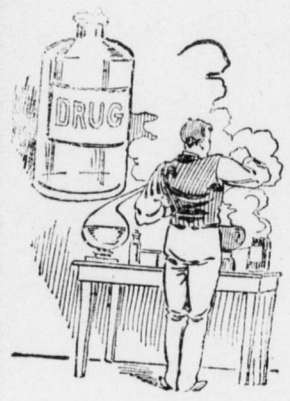
Disinfect



Some disinfectants and germicides might be classed as drugs but, you do not want to be drugged just now with a bug killer. However, now is the time to think of getting after the rose bugs and currant worms.

We have a full line of the "remedies" for that class of pests. Also a non-poisonous bed bug exterminator in small cans.

A Tribute of Respect.

At the regular session of Cameron Castle, No. 257, Knights of the Golden Eagle of Pennsylvania, held August, 28th, 1909, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Chief of the Universe to remove from our midst, our beloved brother, and Sir Knight, Robert E. Crays and in view of the loss sustained by our Castle be it,

Resolvvd, That in the removal of our brother, this Castle loses a faithful Sir Knight, one whom we loved to meet with, and that we bow submissively, being assured that our loss is his eternal gain, in that the brother has sheathed his sword to receive his crown.

Resolved, That we condole with the bereaved family in their sore affliction, and that we commend them for consolation to the one who is too wise to err, and too good to be unkind, and that we share with them the hope of a happy reunion in the heavenly Castle.

Resolved, Further that the Charter of our Castle be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days, and that these preambles and resolutions be published in the CAMERON COUNTY PRESS, and that a copy be furnished the bereaved, also a copy be spread on the minute record of our Castle.

CHAPTER I.

Wave-Tossed and Castaway.

THE beginning was at Cape Town, when Blake and Winthrope boarded the steamer as fellow passengers with Lady Bayrose and her party.

This was a week after Winthrope had arrived on the tramp steamer from India, and her ladyship had explained to Miss Leslie that it was as well for her not to be too hasty in accepting his attentions. To be sure, he was an Englishman, his dress and manners were irreproachable, and he was in the prime of ripened youth. Yet Lady Bayrose was too conscientious a chaperon to be fully satisfied with her countryman's bare assertion that he was engaged on a diplomatic mission requiring reticence regarding his identity. She did not see why this should prevent him from confiding in her.

Notwithstanding this, Winthrope came aboard ship virtually as a member of her ladyship's party. He was so quick, so thoughtful of her comfort, and paid so much more attention to her than to Miss Leslie, that her ladyship had decided to tolerate him, even before Blake became a factor in the situation.

From the moment he crossed the gangway the American engineer entered upon a daily routine of drinking and gambling, varied only by attempts to strike up an off-hand acquaintance with Miss Leslie. This was Winthrope's opportunity, and his clever frustration of what Lady Bayrose termed "that low bounder's impudence" served to install him in the good graces of her ladyship as well as in the favor of the American heiress.

Such, at least, was what Winthrope intimated to the persistent engineer with a superciliousness of tone and manner that would have stung even a British lackey to resentment. To Blake it was supremely galling. He could not rejoin in kind, and the slightest attempt at physical retort would have meant irons and confinement. It was a British ship. Behind Winthrope was Lady Bayrose; behind her ladyship, as a matter of course, was all the despotic authority of the captain. In the circumstances, it was not surprising that the American drank heavier after each successive goading.

Meantime the ship, having touched at Port Natal, steamed on up the east coast, into the Mozambique channel.

On the day of the cyclone, Blake had withdrawn into his stateroom with a number of bottles, and throughout that fearful afternoon was blissfully unconscious of the danger. Even when the steamer went on the reef, he was only partially roused by the shock.

He took a long pull from a quart flask of whisky, placed the flask with great care in his hip pocket, and lurched out through the open doorway. There he reeled headlong against the mate, who had rushed below with three of the crew to bring up Miss Leslie. The mate cursed him virulently, and in the same breath ordered two of the men to fetch him up on deck.

The sea was breaking over the steamer in torrents; but between waves Blake was dragged across to the side and flung over into the bottom of the one remaining boat. He served as a cushion to break the fall of Miss Leslie, who was tossed in after him. At the same time, Winthrope, frantic with fear, scrambled into the bows and cut loose. One of the sailors leaped, but fell short and went down within arm's length of Miss Leslie.

She and Winthrope saw the steamer slip from the reef and sink back into deep water, carrying down in the vortex the mate and the few remaining sailors. After that all was chaos to them. They were driven ashore before the terrific gusts of the cyclone, blinded by the stinging spoondrift to all else but the hell of breakers and coral reefs in whose midst they swirled so dizzily. And through it all Blake lay huddled on the bottom boards gurgling blithely of spicy zephyrs and swaying hammocks.

There came the seemingly final moment when the boat went spinning stern over prow.

Half-sobered, Blake opened his eyes and stared solemnly about him. He was given little time to take his bearings. A smother of broken surf came seething up from one of the great breakers, to roll him over and scrape him a little farther up the muddy shore. There the flood deposited him for a moment, until it could gather force to sweep back and drag him down again toward the roaring sea that had cast him up.

Blake objected—not to the danger of being drowned, but to interference with his repose. He had reached the obstinate stage. He grunted a protest. Again the flood seethed up the shore, and rolled him away from the danger. This was too much! He set his jaw, turned over, and staggered to his feet. Instantly one of the terrific wind-blasts struck his broad back and sent him spinning for yards. He brought up in a shallow pool, beside a hummock.

Sleeping the Sleep of the Just and the Drunkard.

Under the lee of the knoll lay Winthrope and Miss Leslie. Though conscious, both were draggled and bruised and beaten to exhaustion. They were together because they had come ashore together. When the boat capsized, Miss Leslie had been flung against the Englishman, and they had held fast to each other with the desperate clutch of drowning persons. Neither of them ever recalled how they gained the shelter of the hummock.

Blake, sitting waist-deep in the pool, blinked at them benignly with his pale blue eyes, and produced the quart flask, still a third full of whisky.

"I shay, fren's," he observed, "ha' one on me. Won' cos' you shent—notta re' shent!"

"You fuddled lout!" shouted Winthrope. "Come out of that pool."

"Wassama'er pool? Pool's allri'!"

The Englishman squinted through the driving scud at the intoxicated man with an anxious frown. In all probability he felt no commiseration for the American; but it was no light matter to be flung up barehanded on the most unhealthful and savage stretch of the Mozambique coast, and Blake might be able to help them out of their predicament. To leave him in the pool was therefore not to be thought of. So soon as he had drained his bottle, he would lie down, and that would be the end of him. As any attempt to move him forcibly was out of the question, the situation demanded that Winthrope justify his intimations of diplomatic training. After considering the problem for several minutes, he met it in a way that proved he was at least not lacking in shrewdness and tact.

"See here, Blake," he called, in another lull between the shrieking gusts, "the lady is fatigued. You're too much of a gentleman to ask her to come over there."

It required some moments for this to penetrate Blake's fuddled brain. After a futile attempt to gain his feet, he crawled out of the pool on all fours, and, with tears in his eyes, pressed his flask upon Miss Leslie. She shrank away from him, shuddering, and drew herself up in a huddle of flaccid limbs and limp garments. Winthrope, however, not only accepted the flask, but come near to draining it.

Blake squinted at the diminished contents, hesitated, and cast a glance of maudlin gallantry at Miss Leslie. She lay coiled, closer than before, in a draggled heap. Her posture suggested sleep. Blake stared at her, the flask extended waveringly before him. Then he brought it to his lips, and drained out the last drop.

"Time turn in," he mumbled, and sprawled full length in the brackish ooze. Immediately he fell into a drunken stupor.

Winthrope, invigorated by the liquor, rose to his knees, and peered around. It was impossible to face the scud and spoondrift from the furious sea; but to leeward he caught a glimpse of a marsh flooded with salt water, its reedy vegetation beaten flat by the storm. He himself was beaten down by a terrific gust. Panting and trembling, he waited for the wind to lull, in hope that he might obtain a clearer view of his surroundings. Before he again dared rise to his feet, darkness swept down with tropical suddenness and blurred out everything.

The effect of the whisky soon passed, and Winthrope huddled between his companions, drenched and exhausted. Though he could hear Miss Leslie moaning, he was too miserable himself to inquire whether he could do anything for her.

Presently he became aware that the wind was falling. The center of the cyclone had passed before the ship struck, and they were now in the outermost circle of the vast whirlwind. With the consciousness of this change for the better, Winthrope's fear-racked nerves relaxed and he fell into a heavy sleep.

CHAPTER II.

Worse Than Wilderness.

A WAIL from Miss Leslie roused the Englishman out of a dream in which he had been swimming for life across a sea of boiling oil. He sat up and gazed about him, half-dazed. The cyclone had been followed by a dead calm, and the sun, already well above the horizon, was blazing upon them over the glassy surfaces of the dying swells with fierce heat.

Winthrope felt about for his hat. It had been blown off when, at the striking of the steamer, he had rushed up on deck. As he remembered, he straightened, and looked at his companions. Blake lay snoring where he had first outstretched himself, sleeping the sleep of the just—and of the drunkard. The girl, however, was already awake. She sat with her hands clasped in her lap, while the tears rolled slowly down her cheeks.

"My—ah—dear Miss Genevieve, what is the matter?" exclaimed Winthrope.

"Matter? Do you ask, when we are here on this wretched coast, and may not get away for weeks? Oh, I did so count on the London season this year! Lady Bayrose promised that I should be among those presented."

"Well, I—ah—fancy, Lady Bayrose will do no more presenting—unless it may be to the heavenly choir, you know."

"Why, what do you mean, Mr. Winthrope? You told me that she and the maids had been put in the largest boat—"

"My dear Miss Genevieve, you must remember that I am a diplomat. It was all quite sufficiently harrowing, I assure you. They were, indeed, put into the largest boat— Beastly muddle!— While they waited for the mate to fetch you, the boat was crushed alongside, and all in it drowned."

"Drowned!—drowned! Oh, dear Lady Bayrose! And she'd traveled so much—oh, oh, it is horrible! Why did she persuade me to visit the Cape? It was only to be with her—And then for us to start off for India, when we might have sailed straight to England! Oh, it is horrible! horrible! And my maid, and all—It cannot be possible!"

"Pray, do not excite yourself, my dear Miss Genevieve. Their troubles are all over. Er—Gawd has taken them to Him, you know."

"But the pity of it! To be drowned—so far from home!"

"Ah, if that's all you're worrying about!—I must say I'd like to know how we'll get a snack for breakfast. I'm hungry as a—er—groom."

"Eating! How can you think of eating, Mr. Winthrope—and all the others drowned? This sun is becoming dreadfully hot. It is unbearable! Can you not put up some kind of an awning?"

"Well, now, I must say, I was never much of a hand at such things, and really I can't imagine what one could rig up. There might have been a bit of sail in the boat, but one can't see a sign of it. I fancy it was smashed."

Miss Leslie ventured a glance at Blake. Though still lying as he had sprawled in his drunkenness, there was a comforting suggestion of power in his broad shoulders and square jaw.

"Is he still—in that condition?"

"Must have slept it off by this time, and there's no more in the flask," answered Winthrope. Reaching over with his foot, he pushed against Blake's back.

"Huh! All right," grunted the sleeper, and sat up, as had Winthrope, half dazed. Then he stared around him, and rose to his feet. "Well, what in hell! Say, this is damn cheerful!"

"I fancy we are in a nasty fix. But I say, my man, there is a woman present, and your language, you know—"

Blake turned and fixed the Englishman with a cold stare.

"Look here, you bloomin' lud," he said, "there's just one thing you're going to understand, right here and now. I'm not your man, and we're not going to have any of that kind of blatter. Any fool can see we're in a tight hole, and we're like to keep company for a while—probably long as we last."

"What—ah—may I ask, do you mean by that?"

Blake laughed harshly, and pointed from the reef-strewn sea to the vast stretches of desolate marsh. Far inland, across miles of brackish lagoons and reedy mud-flats, could be seen groups of scrubby, half-leafless trees; ten or twelve miles to the southward a rocky headland jutted out into the water; otherwise there was nothing in sight but sea and swamp. If it could not properly be termed a sea-view, it was at least a very wet landscape.

"Fine prospect," remarked Blake, dryly. "We'll be in luck if the fever don't get the last of us inside a month; and as for you two, you'd have as much show of lasting a month as a toad with a rattlesnake, if it wasn't for Tom Blake—that's my name—Tom Blake—and as long as this shindy lasts, you're welcome to call me Tom or Blake, whichever suits. But understand, we're not going to have any more of your bloody, bloomin' English condescension. Aboard ship you had the drop on me, and could pile on dog till the cows came home. Here I'm Blake and you're Winthrope."

"Believe me, Mr. Blake, I quite appreciate the—ah—situation. And now, I fancy that, instead of wasting time—"

"It's about time you introduced me to the lady," interrupted Blake, and he stared at them half defiantly, yet with a twinkle in his eyes.

Miss Leslie flushed. Winthrope swore softly, and bit his lip. Aboard ship, backed by Lady Bayrose and the captain, he had goaded the American at pleasure. Now, however, the situation was reversed. Both title and authority had been swept away by the storm, and he was left to shift for himself against the man who had every reason to hate him for his overbearing insolence. Worse still, both he and Miss Leslie were now dependent upon the American, in all probability for life itself. It was a bitter pill and hard to swallow.

Blake was not slow to observe the Englishman's hesitancy. He grinned.

"Every dog has his day, and I guess this is mine," he said. "Take your time, if it comes hard. I can imagine it's a pretty stiff dose for your ludship. But why in—why in frozen hades an American lady should object to an introduction to a countryman who's going to do his level best to save her pretty little self from the hyenas—well, it beats me."

Winthrope flushed redder than the girl.

"Miss Leslie, Mr. Blake," he murmured, hoping to put an end to the situation.

But yet Blake persisted. He bowed, openly exultant.

"You see, miss," he said, "I know the correct thing quite as much as your swells. I knew all along you were Jenny Leslie. I ran a survey for your dear papa when he was manipulating the Q. T. railroad, and he did me out of my pay."

BIG PROFITS OF THE INTENSIVE GARDEN

Skilled Culturist Will Secure $1,000 Out of One Acre of Land in One Year if Conditions Are Favorable.

What is the real worth of a garden? Many people incline to gardening—they feel they would love the outdoor life, and not mind the work too much if they could be sure of a decent, comfortable living in return, writes Moray Bliss in Youth's Companion. We hear grumbling enough from gardeners, who are proverbial grumblers, that help is scarce, seasons poor, prices low, and, in short, that gardening does not pay.

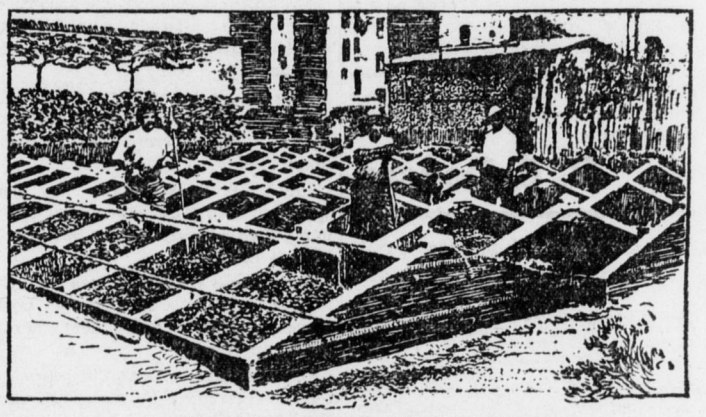
The market seedsmen smile when you ask if one can make a thousand dollars a year if one knows how to garden. There are many men making that sum.

If we would live by gardening, we must study the ways of gardening. It was a shrewd old English farmer who used to say to his sons: "Put the horse to, and let us drive round and see what other people are after."

The French market-gardeners about Paris are the most skillful growers in the world—except the Chinese—and the average garden of an acre or two "tilled to the eyebrows," as they say, shows the following returns, given by our consuls and business men interested in the matter:

"There are, of course, exceptions, where the total income from one acre is $6,000 a year, but as a usual thing the gardens yield but $1,500 to an acre, and the average annual profit of the gardener is not over $1,000."

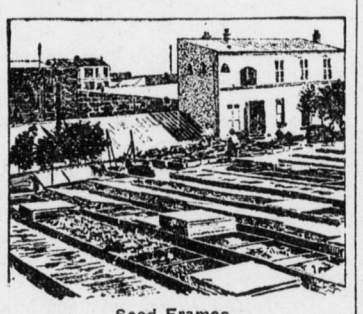
How many ministers and college professors and teachers and small shopkeepers, artists and literary folk are there making a healthy living and putting $1,000 a year in the bank besides?



In the Shelter of the Fortifications of Paris.

The common Fench gardener makes this by intensive gardening. True, he begins with certain advantages. For generations before him his family have been gardeners, and the instinct for the best methods runs in the blood. Within a ten-mile circuit of Paris are 2,000 market-gardens, models of care and culture, and some of which have been held by the same family for 200 years. These gardens are not large; the largest is said to be not over four acres, common gardens are not over two acres, and not the smallest profits are taken from plats of a quarter-acre, tilled with the finest care.

We need not invest in expensive greenhouses of glass in steel framing, as some of our American growers now do. The clever Frenchman finds his cheap board frame, with old window-sash sufficient, and instead of thick straw mats at eight cents apiece, he uses reed mats at sixpence each, which last four years or more. The reeds grow in most of our marshes, and mat-making is a very simple and profitable trade.



Seed Frames.

For hand-lights, we may take the substitute used in the gardens of Belgium, Germany and Holland. This simple hand-light is a frame of willow covered with glazed muslin, under which the plant grows as finely as under glass. Better, in some respects, for the cotton is not so good a conductor of heat as glass.

In place of the immense quantities of stable dressing which the Paris gardener uses by the hundreds of tons to the acre, it is common now to use hot-water pipes running through the garden beds of rich soil. Good authority says that 50 tons of coke will heat an acre of glass-houses the year round. Begin small, as all experts advise, with a quarter-acre, or even 2,500 feet. You can buy a lot of that size for five dollars on warm garden soil near a railway station, three hours from Boston, and learn that money is to be made by gardening at home as well as in Paris.

Probably the best profit in American gardens is to be made from tomatoes under high culture. That means fresh tomatoes eight months of the year, and 30 pounds at least from each vine, of large, smooth fruit, red, pink or yellow, with as much variety of flavor as there is apples.

To accomplish this the seedlings are transplanted four or five times, to make them stocky and throw their force into fruiting. They are trained on trellises to catch the full sun, and when sunshine is scarce in seasons of fog and rain, it is hinted that the electric light is turned on the greenhouses with ripening effect. The field of experiment with gardens is wide—as are their profits.

Eden lies in every garden rightly grown. And there are few places in this country where gardening is not only possible, but profitable. A well-informed grower told me that the most money was likely to be made from market-gardens near the smaller cities and towns, not in the great cities, which draw on the gardens of the world for supplies.

If too far for markets, there is good work to be done raising seed in out-of-the-way places where plants will not mix. I do not know how long growers will have to pay five dollars for a hundred seed of certain choice plants, but well-grown seed, clean from weeds, will always command its price, for busy gardeners cannot bother to grow their own seed. Women and children can earn pin-money in this way from the smallest plot of soil.

My own first garden, six feet by ten, when I was 12 years old, was planted chiefly to Indian corn, tended as if it were a pot plant, watered with house slop, and hoed every week. The huge amber ears it bore were instantly begged by my father for seed, as better than anything he could get.

An English laborer cultivated a quarter-acre with spade and fork, raising 15 bushels of wheat, which is the average of our wheat crop per acre. It gave enough flour for him and his wife for a year; but if he had only known enough to raise it for seed-wheat, without much more pains, he could have sold his crop for a hundred dollars.

You can, if you have no better chance, raise seed from plants in pots on the top of a bay window in town, and so learn the work of tending and enriching them for seed. Indeed, there is a good deal of gardening to be learned within the scope of one six-inch flower pot.

MUCH DAMAGE BY TWIG GIRDLER

Young Trees More Susceptible to Injury Than the Older Ones—Insects Hard to Find.

The twig girdler is a beetle belonging to the family of long horned beetles. It is a little over one-half inch in length. The ground color is a brownish gray with yellow dots and a broad characteristic band of gray across the wing covers.

It is the adult female beetle which does the girdling. Beginning in August and continuing through the early fall, she proceeds with her uninvited task of pruning trees. After selecting a twig suitable for her endeavors, she begins making punctures, usually one puncture at the base of each branchlet or young bud, and deposits an oval whitish egg. She then retreats to a point between the most proximal egg and the origin of the twig and proceeds to girdle the branch, cutting through the bark and the cambium in the characteristic manner.

This girdling causes the twig to die, thus offering food for the young larvae. The twig is soon broken off by the wind or some other cause and falls to the ground, where decay sets in and the larvae have ideal conditions for growth and development. The larvae does not complete its growth in the fall, but after feeding for a time it hibernates, completing its growth and transformation to an adult beetle the following season.

The adult beetles, because of their dull colors and general habits, are very hard to find or catch. The beetle dies in the fall, and therefore we must fight this insect in the egg and larvae stages. The method recommended is to gather and bury all fallen twigs and the girdled twigs not yet fallen. This destroys the eggs and larvae that would develop into next season's brood.

Kitty (with a yawn)—No; I am more interested in the going young man.

HAD AWFUL WEEPING ECZEMA

Face and Neck Were Raw—Terrible Itching, Inflammation and Soreness—All Treatments Failed.

Cuticura Proved a Great Success.

"Eczema began over the top of my ear. It cracked and then began to spread. I had three different doctors and tried several things, but they did me no good. At last one side of my face and my neck were raw. The water ran out of it so that I had to wear medicated cotton, and it was so inflamed and sore that I had to put a piece of cloth over my pillow to keep the water from it, and it would stain the cloth a sort of yellow. The eczema itched so that it seemed as though I could tear my face all to pieces. Then I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and it was not more than three months before it was all healed up. Miss Ann Pearsons, Northfield, Vt., Dec. 19, 1907."

All in Fight Against Tuberculosis.

Prevention of tuberculosis versus dividends is the proposition which some of our largest insurance companies are now trying to establish. The Metropolitan Life recently applied for permission to erect a sanatorium for its policy holders and employes afflicted with tuberculosis, but the application was refused on grounds of illegality by New York State Superintendent of Insurance Hotchkiss. The company is, however, conducting an active educational campaign by distributing 3,500,000 pamphlets among its policy holders. The Provident Savings Life Assurance society has also established a health bureau, where its policy holders may receive free medical advice. Several fraternal orders, notably the Modern Woodmen, Knights of Pythias, Royal League, Royal Arcanum and Workmen's Circle, have already established or are contemplating the erection of sanatoria for their tuberculous members.

Marriage and Meanness.

Some years ago there lived in Atchison a young woman noted for her good works and gentleness. She was always helping the poor and was patient and kind and universally admired. She married a fairly good man and abused him within three months. She had been good and patient for years, but a husband was too much for her; she had never been cross to any one until she was cross to her husband. There is something about marriage that stirs up hidden depths of meanness on both sides.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

Weds Her Rich Stepfather.

Social circles in Pasadena, Cal., learned with amazement the other day that Miss Katherine Traphagen has become the bride of her stepfather, Cyrus M. Davis of Los Angeles. Miss Traphagen lived with her sisters in Altadena and was one of the prominent members of the Young Women's Christian association, being director of its short story club.

An Escape.

"Are you sure that indicator registered the correct fare?"

"Yes," answered the taxicabman. "You aren't kicking, are you?"

"No, I'm congratulating myself. If we went that far in so short a time we were mighty lucky not to get arrested for scorching."—Washington Star.

IT WORKS

The Laborer Eats Food That Would Wreck an Office Man.

Men who are actively engaged at hard work can sometimes eat food that would wreck a man who is more closely confined.

This is illustrated in the following story:

"I was for 12 years clerk in a store working actively and drank coffee all the time without much trouble until after I entered the telegraph service.

"There I got very little exercise and drinking strong coffee, my nerves were unsteady and my stomach got weak and I was soon a very sick man. I quit meat and tobacco and in fact I stopped eating everything which I thought might affect me except coffee, but still my condition grew worse, and I was all but a wreck.

"I finally quit coffee and commenced to use Postum a few years ago, and I am speaking the truth when I say, my condition commenced to improve immediately and today I am well and can eat anything I want without any bad effects, all due to lifting from coffee to Postum.

"I told my wife today I believed I could digest a brick if I had a cup of postum to go with it.

"We make it according to directions boiling it full 20 minutes and use good rich cream and it is certainly delicious."

Ideas for Charity Bazar.

No matter what the season the great organization known as "Society" works for charity. In fact, not to be identified with something of humanitarian import immediately stamps a person as being decidly out of it.

"Charity" is a magnet that draws "buds," "belles" and matrons together with but one interest. Young women in touring cars stop you on the street asking for books and magazines for a library, while all sorts of entertainments engross the evenings.

All this leads up to a novel entertainment being planned for "shut-ins" of all ages. It is to be an afternoon affair on the lawn, the huge porches being utilized as workshops.

There are a number of committees with competent chairmen. There is one on "amusement for children," one for "elderly people," one on "food delicacies." As near as I can judge, it is to be a most fascinating affair.

Maids from Japan will serve tea, quaint Holland lassies are to dispense cocoa, both iced and hot; dainty "American beauties" garbed in white, with hair adornment of "Beauty" rose, will receive the jellies, jams, etc., and the children's committee, all in costume from Mother Goose, will receive for the poor "shut-in" boys and girls.

One group of young girls has prepared quantities of surprise nuts, made by inserting some tiny object like a new penny, a bonbon, wee doll, tiny thimble, roll of bright baby ribbon, or a raisin between English walnut shells; the meats extracted were turned over to the "home-made candy" committee. The nurses will find these nuts invaluable as rewards of merit.

For elderly "shut-ins," there are to be boxes of "comfort" powders, suggestive mottoes, pencils, pads of papers, sewing outfits, good short stories, etc.

Scrap book fans are capital idea, too, made by pasting bright sayings, jokes, little poems, anecdotes, etc., on both sides of a fan. It is light to hold, and serves a double purpose, giving comfort by its breeze and amusement by reading the specially collected sayings.

There is also a committee to collect jars, bowls and vases, as nurses say the problem of finding receptacles for flowers is often a perplexing one. An up-to-date committee is the one collecting puzzles, and why wouldn't the crippled "shut-ins" love these captivating pastimes just as much as the sturdy youngsters I saw yesterday deeply absorbed in putting "dog" puzzles together.

I wish I had gotten all these ideas sooner. They are all of practical use and there is always a perfect epidemic of bazars just before Christmas—so prepare now.

A Delightful Shower.

"Polly" had at last succumbed to Cupid's wiles and the spinster club to which she belonged resolved to do the proper thing in the way of a shower.

The invitations were on green cardboard, lettered in yellow. They were so pretty that it was some time before the recipient realized they were supposed to represent jealousy.

Each guest took a dainty tea cup and saucer, the hostess providing the pot. All were asked to bring their thimbles. The work provided by the hostess was a variety of tea towels. Then the hostess requested the bride-elect to make a cup of tea as a farewell to the other spinsters. The maid brought in a tray with the cups and saucers, each cup bearing a black cat shaped card on which the donor's name, and a sentiment were inscribed in white ink. I forgot to say, these cat cards were inclosed with the invitations, and the cups were all sent to the hostess the day before the shower. Every one said it was a most unique way of giving a shower.

An Old-Fashioned Party.

"That Reminds Me" on an invitation added a spice of novelty to the afternoon. Each guest told a story reminiscent or otherwise, and as they were all old friends a most delightful time was enjoyed. This is a capital idea for a grandmothers' party. Use all the old-fashioned things obtainable, have a nosegay of pansies (for thoughts) at each place and serve this deliciously old-fashioned supper.

Cold ham and chicken, creamed potatoes, tiny baking powder biscuit, tomato pickles, brandied peaches, baked cup custard, rolled jelly cake, tea with cream and sugar. Have an old-fashioned bouquet of garden flowers, butter plates, a castor in center of the table and pour the tea at the table.

Pass buttermilk in the afternoon, icy cold in thin tumblers or—better still—goblets.

Children's Wear

Coat for Girl from Eight to Ten Years.—A simple little coat suitable for linen, serge or cashmere, is shown here; it is an ordinary sacque shape, fastening with three buttons, below which the fronts slope slightly away; white embroidered lawn collar and cuffs add a prettiness. Hat of embroidery, trimmed with colored ribbon taken round the crown and arranged in a rosette at the side. Material required: 2½ yards 46 inches wide.

Dress for Girl from Ten to Twelve Years.—Striped or checked zephyr might be used for this useful style; the skirt, which is slightly gathered on the hips and back, is trimmed at the foot by a band of zephyr to match check. The small yoke of embroidery is edged with a shaped piece of zephyr to which the material part is gathered. Cuffs of zephyr are set to the puffed sleeves. Materials required: Six yards zephyr 36 inches wide, one-fourth yard embroidery, one yard plain zephyr.

Dress for Girl from Eight to Ten Years.—For school or seaside wear, this little dress would be found most useful; our model is in sky blue linen; the skirt has a box plait down center of front, with other plaits turning from it; buttons and loops trim the foot of plait; the bodice is arranged to match and is worn with Peter Pan collar and cuffs. Hat of coarse straw, with blue ribbon taken round the crown and tied in a bow at the left side. Materials required: Five yards linen 36 inches wide, eight buttons.

PAINT DURABILITY.

The first thought in painting should, of course, be durability—and durability means simply pure paint properly applied. Pure paint is pure white lead and linseed oil (with or without tinting material).

Some years ago the paint-buyer was likely to get adulterated or counterfeit white lead if he was not familiar with brands. To-day he may buy with perfect safety if he only makes sure that the Dutch Boy Painter trademark is on the packages of white lead that he buys. This trademark was adopted by National Lead Company to distinguish the pure white lead made by them from the worthless adulterated and fake goods. It is a guarantee as valuable to the house-owner as the education of a paint expert could be.

A Candid Judge.

A Dover lawyer tells a story in which figures Hon. H. L. Dawes, who, it seems, in his younger days was an indifferent speaker. Shortly after his admission to the bar he had a case which was tried before a North Adams justice of the peace, and Dawes was opposed by a lawyer whose eloquence attracted a large crowd. The justice was perspiring in the crowded room and evidently fast losing his temper. Finally he drew off his coat and, in the midst of the eloquent address, burst out:

"Mr. Attorney, supposing that you take a seat and let Mr. Dawes speak. I want to thin out this crowd."—Lippincott's.

Early to Bed.

The man who makes it the habit of his life to go to bed at nine o'clock usually gets rich and is always reliable. Of course going to bed does not make him rich—I merely mean that such a man will in all probability be up early in the morning and do a big day's work, so his weary bones put him to bed early. Rogues do their work at night. Honest men work by day. It's all a matter of habit and good habits in America make any man rich. Wealth is a result of habit.—John Jacob Astor.

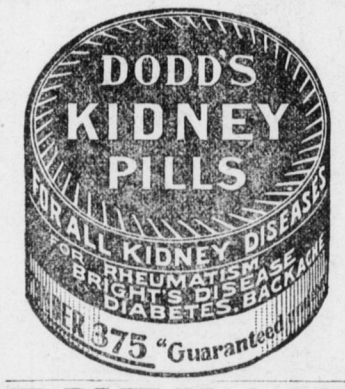
For children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

Hunger is a necessary evil; it promotes industry.



AND NO WONDER.

"I don't know why you moved, my dear. Your house was close to the golf links."

"I know; but I found the children were learning such bad language."

Sit Up.

Much rot has recently been writ, and wags have rent their brains asunder, in trying to make food for wit this dreadnaught lid the girls hide under. What need have men to knock it so? They do not have to sweat beneath it. Is it because the fellows know the landscape has been robbed to wreathe it? We are no judge of ladies' lids, and care not what your choice or vote is; it's not what's on but in girls' heads that makes us sit up and take notice.—Bard of Benzie.

Graves of the Wicked.

Where is the man who has not wandered now and then through the graveyards of the world and wondered where the wicked folks are buried? If one believes all the tombstones say one inevitably inclines to think there never were many, if any, very, very wicked folks on earth.

Paxtine TOILET ANTISEPTIC

—NOTHING LIKE IT FOR—

THE TEETH Paxtine excels any dentifrice in cleansing, whitening and removing tartar from the teeth, besides destroying all germs of decay and disease which ordinary tooth preparations cannot do.

THE MOUTH Paxtine used as a mouth wash disinfects the mouth and throat, purifies the breath, and kills the germs which collect in the mouth, causing sore throat, bad teeth, bad breath, grippe, and much sickness.

THE EYES when inflamed, tired, and burn, may be instantly relieved and strengthened by Paxtine.

CATARRH Paxtine will destroy the germs that cause catarrh, heal the inflammation and stop the discharge. It is a positive remedy for uterine catarrh.

Paxtine is a harmless yet powerful germicide, disinfectant and deodorizer. Used in bathing it destroys odors and leaves the body antiseptically clean.

The Soul That Is Alive.

To know what you prefer, instead of humbly saying "Amen" to what the world tells you you ought to prefer, is to have kept your soul alive.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Exit Is Final.

"All the world's a stage," says the Philosopher of Folly (and, incidentally Bill Shakespeare), "but with this difference—when the curtain falls, the star actors can't respond to encores."

SIMPLE CURE FOR PIMPLES.

There is only one way to obtain a clear Transparent and a flawless Complexion; massage treatment makes the flesh flabby, the so called beauty creams containing oily or other greasy substances, fill up the pores of the skin, preventing them from doing their work properly, and also induce the growth of a fine fuzzy hair on the face. If you would have a face entirely free from Pimples, Blotches, Eczema, Blackheads and kindered diseases of the skin, get the following prescription put up at any reliable Drug Store and your troubles will soon be over, Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one once, Alcohol seven ounces. Mix, shake well and apply to the face night and morning, allowing it to remain at least ten minutes, the longer the quicker results you will have. In extreme cases apply four or five times daily.

The filmy powder deposits on the face may be wiped off after a reasonable time. Do not use soap, instead wash the face with oat meal and a little powdered orris root tied up in a cheese cloth bag, and no matter how bad your face is, or what the cause may have been, this will surely cure it. This prescription is perfectly harmless and can be used on the most delicate skin.

Are You This Man?

We are looking for just ONE big, broad-gagued man of business ability in this county to act as our special representative, to look after our present customers and to add new ones.

To the right man we have a mighty good proposition to make—pleasant employment at profitable wages which will be paid every week. But we must have a real worker, a man who knows how to work and who likes to work because in so doing he is benefitting himself. If you are this kind of a man, write us at once for complete details which will open the way to a bigger business success for you.
